

VISION Portland, Oregon, is the craft brewing capital of America and supports an extensive, thriving pub culture. Portland also hosts more non-profit organizations per capita than any other city in America and boasts very high community involvement and civic pride. Our vision is to leverage these unique attributes of our city by creating a family-friendly pub environment where our neighbors from the surrounding area can come to enjoy community around good food and craft beer while supporting great causes. To integrate this vision of pub with benevolent outreach, we have established relationships with a number of non-profit organizations to which our pub will donate 100% of net profits. The customer will purchase their food and/or beverage, and then have a chance to choose where they wish their individual proceeds will go to from a short list of local charities. This ground-breaking model for business is literally the first of its kind and we believe this could begin a new wave of business and mission that has the possibility of changing the way we work, spend and care for our communities. Some of the local charities we've partnered with include:

Oregon Food Bank

Food program for the hungry

Friends of Children

Local mentoring program

Compassion First

Local organization fighting the sex trade

Habitat for Humanity

Housing organization

Dougy Center

Housing and care for children who have lost their parents

Portland Rescue Mission

Homeless shelter and care

Friends of Trees

Local environmental organization

And a few more covering a wide range of social justice, care and educational issues.

In addition, The Oregon Public House will be a place where people in the community can learn more these outstanding non-profit organizations and discover practical ways they can become involved in transforming our world and improving the lives of others. We see our pub as a community center for change and action where others can come to simply enjoy great food and drink and give a little to the charity of their choice, but also learn how to take action and start to "be the change they wish to see in the world".

GET INVOLVED We currently have two ways for you to be involved in this ground-breaking endeavor — as a Founder or a Partner. As with all businesses, it is essential for us to have start up capital. We are attempting to open the pub with zero debt service. This will allow us to immediately begin donating our profits to worthwhile charities and to influence the community around us.

TEAM Ryan Saari has been involved in philanthropic endeavors and community service for the past 12 years. He lives an easy walk from the pub and knows first hand the potential it has for transformation and service in his neighborhood. For this unique venture, Ryan has joined forces with Roger Becker, a sales and marketing professional; Charlie Sattgast, a successful entrepreneur; and Ed Heissler, an investment advisor and successful entrepreneur.

Partners

Partners are people who believe in our vision and would like to be financially involved in moving our vision forward, but not at the level of a Founder. Partners in our pub venture can make a tax-deductible contribution of any amount.

Founders

Founders either make a one-time contribution to The Oregon Public House, or pledge ten equal monthly payments.

Level 1 Founders ($2,500 donation) receive one beer a day for life.

Level 2 Founders ($1,500 donation) receive one beer a week for life.

Involvement at both levels get you a "Founder's Card" — a personalized ID card, to be presented for your free beer. Also, you will have your personalized pint glass displayed on the Founders Wall in the pub, which you may use at each visit.
